

GERMAN RUSH AGAINST PARIS REPORTED CHECKED; RIGHT WING FORCED BACK THIRTY MILES

ALLIES SWEEP DOWN ON FOES UNDER GREAT FORTS AT PARIS

Apparently They Have Suddenly Turned on the German Right Wing and Pushed It Back to Seventy Miles From the French Capital

OSTEND, Belgium (Via London), Sept. 4 [Associated Press].—The advance of the German right wing is reported checked. The Germans have been obliged to retire on St. Quentin.

LONDON, Sept. 4, 6:16 P. M.—A despatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Antwerp reaching here by way of Ostend says that it seems that the attempt of the Germans to envelope the left wing of the Allies has been frustrated.

St. Quentin is seventy miles from Paris and about twenty miles north of the fortress of La Fere, which was reported captured several days ago.

According to the above despatch the allies have suddenly assumed the offensive and driven the Germans back for thirty or forty miles.

In this connection it may be noted that the German War Office claims to have had 750,000 troops in a three days' battle with the French centre in a line from Rheims to Verdun. It is possible that the right wing was so weakened by this movement that the allies were able to rush in and drive it back.

KAISER ON BATTLEFIELD WITH 750,000 OF HIS TROOPS

BERLIN (via The Hague), Sept. 4 [United Press].—The War Office to-day stated that in the battle which began Monday and lasted until late Wednesday, between Rheims and Verdun, France, upward of 750,000 men were engaged in the German battle line.

This statement declares that the French opposition was strongly maintained but that eventually it was crushed.

The War Office explains that the general plan of campaign is working out exactly as originally planned. News that Paris actually is under siege is expected momentarily.

LONDON, Sept. 4 [Associated Press].—Reference to the titanic struggle between the German army under Crown Prince Frederick William and the forces of France which took place between Rheims and Verdun Wednesday is made again to-day from Berlin.

If the Berlin statement proves correct—that three-quarters of a million German troops were fighting in that region Wednesday in the "greatest battle of history"—it would explain much of what has been happening in the western field.

To bring in troops to anything like the number of 750,000, enormous French forces must have been concentrated at the expense of the French left flank, where the Germans have been making progress with their brilliant dash on Paris.

The battle along the Rheims-Verdun line has been claimed, in an earlier message from Berlin, as a victory for the army of the Crown Prince. The Crown Prince is reported to have had the assistance of Emperor William, who was present.

GERMAN REPORT ON THE ALLIES.

BERLIN, Sept. 4 [By wireless to the Associated Press, via Sayville, L. I.].—Berlin is permanently decked with flags. Confidence prevails that nothing can stay the victorious advance of the western armies.

Major Morant, the military expert of the Tageblatt, expects that the armies of Duke Albrecht and the Crown Prince will soon reach Chalons and Verdun, which can be easily masked without delaying the advance.

These towns have lost their strategic importance. Toul and Epinal (capital of the Department of Vosges) may delay the armies of Prince Rupprecht and Gen. von Heeringen, but this is unimportant. Raids in Upper Alsace are to be expected while Belfort is in the hands of the French, but this is without significance so far as the general result is concerned.

The Lokal Anzeiger points out that the taking by the Germans of La Fere and Laon almost without a blow means the capture of a position on the lines where the population

ALLIES TO MAKE A STAND AT OUTER FORTS OF PARIS

FRENCH REPORT ON THE ALLIES.

BORDEAUX, France, Sept 4 [United Press].—President Poincare and his Cabinet met in the temporary capital to-day for the first time and considered reports of conditions at the front. It was announced that conditions were satisfactory.

The allied army is being very heavily reinforced and a new stand will be made on the lines of defense previously selected of which the outer forts of Paris will be the keystone.

Minister of War Millerand declared emphatically that the Germans will never be able to take Paris.

Reports received from Gen. Joffre at field army headquarters state that the French lines are holding fast in the northeast and that the offensive operations in Lorraine are continued, with the Germans being pushed back on their main lines.

PARIS, Sept. 4 [Associated Press].—French troops have been passing through Paris for the last three days, headed toward the battle lines which protect the capital from the German advance.

The decision of the American Government to maintain its Embassy in Paris is commented upon with warm appreciation by nearly all the newspapers.

The services of Elihu B. Washburne to his countrymen and to all the residents of Paris in 1871 are recalled. Mr. Washburne was American Minister here between 1869 and 1877.

PARIS, Sept. 4 [Central News Cable].—It is stated that the left wing of the allies has now fallen back to the third line of defense.

The German army pushing from the centre of the frontier and held back until now, is reported to have captured the city of Mezieres in the Department of Ardennes.

PARIS, Sept. 4 [United Press].—Another German aviator flew over Paris to-day and dropped bombs on the city. French aviators went in pursuit but the German successfully made his escape.

The entire under side of his aeroplane was armored and the rifle fire from the forts and the Eiffel Tower station made no impression.

SEVEN DAMAGED SHIPS AT KIEL INDICATE NEW NAVAL FIGHT

LONDON, Sept. 4 (3.55 P. M.).—The official information bureau has issued a statement saying:

"According to information derived from a trustworthy source, seven German destroyers and torpedo boats have arrived at Kiel in a damaged condition, and it is understood that others have been sunk in the vicinity of the Kiel Canal."

[The only naval engagement hitherto reported occurred a week ago off the Heligoland Bight, when two German cruisers were sunk, one was burned and two destroyers were sunk. It is presumed to-day's reports indicate another fight, evidently in the Baltic, since Kiel is on the Baltic end of the Kiel Canal, while Heligoland is in the North Sea, on the opposite side of the canal. Of course, if the damaged ships were in a fight off Heligoland they might have reached Kiel through the canal, but it is believed they were damaged in an engagement in the Baltic, probably by Russian destroyers or cruisers.]
